

Daniel Hines Air Mail/Aviation Papers

Archivist's Note:

This collection was archived over the course of several weeks in June/July of 2004. The activity was undertaken using the principles and techniques outlined in Organizing Archival Records: A Practical Method of Arrangement and Description for Small Archives, by David W. Carmicheal. Decisions regarding preservation techniques and storage containers were made in consultation with Patricia Scott, Collection Development Librarian at the Pennsylvania College of Technology. All preservation materials and containers were purchased from the Archival Division of the Brodart Library Supplies and Furnishings Company, McElhattan, PA

The original accession was found in 17 boxes and 2 safes. The materials were in a relatively random order as I am given to understand that they were gathered from Daniel Hines' apartment after his passing. Interspersed among the boxes were a number of Daniel Hines' personal items. Also, in addition to the aviation and Air Mail Service (AMS) materials, there were some items pertaining to Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy.

The first step in the archiving process was to inventory the accession. The original inventory can be found on the disk included with this document. After the accession was inventoried a conscious decision was made to cull materials that were not related to the U.S. Air Mail Service and aviation in general. The personal effects of Daniel Hines were separated from the collection and presented to the Hines family. Other non-AMS materials were separated and also presented to the Hines family.

Because Daniel Hines' primary interest was the early US Air Mail Service, a conscious decision was made to employ an organizational logic that would best serve researchers of the early U.S. Air Mail Service and early aviation. Thirteen series were established. When practical, the contents of the series were cataloged. (The series inventories are on the disk and also included in the appendices of this document.)

In the interests of preservation, all photos were inserted into polypropylene page covers. Some photos reside in the correspondence series since any enclosures found in correspondence were left intact. Negatives were stored in the sleeves/envelopes in which they were found. Due to the deteriorating conditions of the Newspaper clippings, approximately 130 AMS related clippings were scanned onto a CD in a .jpeg format. It is recommended that the researcher examine the CD first to minimize handling of the original clippings. All storage boxes and folders used are of acid free materials. Time and cost have dictated the level of preservation applied to this point. Additional preservation steps may be taken by future curators.

This is a truly unique collection of early Air Mail Service information. It is clear that Daniel Hines was a diligent researcher who devoted many years and resources to gathering this information. Few existing collections rival its scope. The correspondence offers fascinating insight into the thoughts and experiences of the pilots. Many of the pictures are unique and heretofore unseen by this researcher. Some of the artifacts I consider priceless. I am pleased to have had the opportunity to work with this collection. I hope that my efforts will allow future researchers to fully appreciate Daniel Hines' work.

Collection Title: Daniel Hines Air Mail/Aviation Papers

Background Note:

As a young man, Daniel Hines developed an interest in the US Air Mail Service while watching the planes come and go past his family farm near the Bellefonte Air Mail Field. His older brother, Ellis Hines, worked as a mechanic at the Bellefonte field and both he and Dan had the opportunity to spend time with several of the pilots and personnel assigned to, or passing through that station.

After service in the military, Dan continued to pursue his interests, acquiring his pilot's license and later, working for the US Postal Service. He became a member of the Air Mail Pioneers, an organization dedicated to the former employees of the US Air Mail Service (AMS) which operated from 1918-1927. In the late 1950's he began in earnest to gather information about the early days of the AMS. By corresponding with pilots and the relatives as well as various organizations and agencies, he was able to gather a considerable amount of data. Blending his own life's observations with the information he gathered, Dan wrote a manuscript that he often referred to as "The Air Mail Story".

Dan was instrumental in organizing events that were related to the early Air Mail Service. These include the landing at Bellefonte of the Rebuilt DH-4 "Old 249", piloted by William Hackbarth during its 50th Anniversary commemorative flight and the dedication of the Jimmy Cleveland Memorial on Mt. Nittany. While he often referred to his pursuits as a hobby, he was commonly recognized as an "Air Mail Historian" by those familiar with his work.

Upon his passing, Dan bequeathed his research to his nephew, Robert Hines. At his direction Dan's materials and manuscripts were archived so that they might be preserved and appreciated by future generations.
